

D.O. Valdepeñas Viña Albali Verdejo Sauvignon Blanc

Inspired by the starry clear night, Félix Solís wanted to create a wine that reflected the joyful and lively spirit of the Spaniards. He named this wine Albali, after a star in the constellation of Aquarius.

In Spain, the native Verdejo grape variety is the essence of a fruitful, light white wine, which at every time of the year can be enjoyed. Viña Albali Verdejo is the result of the careful selection of the best grapes. Although it is a young wine, it has a magnificent structure.

Regionen

The name Valdepeñas comes from the eponymous town from antiquity, located in a sun-drenched river valley, dotted with small rock formations - Val de peñas (Valley of the Rocks). Located south of Castile-La Mancha in central Spain, this region is almost completely enclosed by the growing areas of the denomination of origin La Mancha D.O. and borders the south with Andalusia. The climate is dominated by extremes, with temperatures ranging from 40°C in summer to -10°C in winter. The future of this denomination of origin lies in the hands of the red wines made from Tempranillo grapes, which are well suited for aging, from the excellent Crianzas, Reservas and Gran Reservas.

Verkostungsnotizen

Light yellow lemon. Fresh and intense with floral and fruit aromas. Rich, soft body on the palate, with a balanced acidity and a hint of fennel, herbs, citrus fruits, melon and peach.

Speiseempfehlung

Very good with fresh, light dishes, especially fish and seafood, from sushi to sardines. This wine is also perfect with the traditional Spanish pork from old Castile.

Technische Information

Each step is subject to strict quality control. The best Verdejo and Sauvignon Blanc grapes are selected and macerated for a few hours to support the unfolding of the aromas of both varieties. Fermentation takes place in stainless steel tanks at 14-16 °C. The blending of Verdejo and Sauvignon Blanc is done by experts.
