□ Technical Information

A production technique, often referred to as the Charmat Method is used (the same method as many Italian sparkling wines). The wine undergoes a traditional primary fermentation, before yeast and sugar are added to the wine in pressurised tanks, where a second fermentation takes place. The closed tanks trap the natural bi-product of fermentation; carbon dioxide, which dissolves into the wine, to create the bubbles. The wine is then bottled to ensure a fresh and aromatic product.
